

NuFACTOR FFF Specialty Pharmacy Announces 2009 Recipients of The Eric Dostie Memorial College Scholarship

Hemophilia scholarship established by FFF Enterprises' chief executive officer Patrick M. Schmidt offers higher education financial assistance to 10 students with a hemophilia disorder.

PRESS RELEASE | August 10, 2009

NuFACTOR, the specialty pharmacy of FFF Enterprises, has announced the 10 recipients of the annual Eric Dostie Memorial College Scholarship. The scholarships are designated for students who either have hemophilia or a similar bleeding disorder or have a family member with such a condition. Students from across the nation were chosen based on scholastic achievement, community service and financial need.

"We are pleased to support a scholarship program that encourages students in the hemophilia community to pursue higher education," said Patrick M. Schmidt, chief executive officer, FFF Enterprises, Inc. "It's nice to read about the many hopes and aspirations these students have for their futures, and we are proud to assist them in realizing their higher education and career goals."

The Eric Dostie Memorial College Scholarship was founded in 1994 to honor the memory of Eric Dostie, a young boy with hemophilia who died in 1994. Students must be citizens of the United States, and enrolled full time in an accredited two- or four-year college program.

The 2009 recipients were each awarded a scholarship of $1,000 to apply to education expenses. The students came from regions across the country, and have career aspirations that range from psychology, nursing and bioengineering to early childhood education and music. This year's scholarship recipients include Michael Goldberg, from Indiana; Tejas Joshi, from Michigan; Kelly Seth, from Alabama; Christina Martin from Maryland; Adam Millard, from Texas; Stephen Nicolosi, from Pennsylvania; Eric Shepard, from Ohio; Alison Stace-Naughton, from Wisconsin; Daniel Warren, from Virginia; and John Yunghans, from New Hampshire.
