

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Temecula, Calif.: NuFACTOR, the specialty pharmacy of FFF Enterprises, Inc. is welcoming applications for the 2017 Annual Eric Dostie Memorial College Scholarship. The scholarship was created in remembrance of Eric Dostie, a boy with hemophilia who was tragically murdered on August 27, 1994, at the young age of five. Eric's family members find joy in memories of Eric sharing his aspirations of becoming a scientist and inventing a cure for hemophilia in the form of a "chocolate pill." He has inspired many lives through his uplifting positivity, humor and unending love.

Each year, ten students are selected to receive the $1,000 scholarship. Applicants must be U.S. citizens and enrolled full-time in an accredited two- or four-year college program. Submission requirements include an essay describing how his or her education will impact humanity, encourage self-improvement and enrichment. The recipients are selected based on scholastic achievement, community service and financial need. Last year's scholarship recipients included Angela Kessler, Breanna Bucco, Calvin Dutcher, Justin Horbacz, Kenadie Hamblin, Mackenzie Herbert, Malia Jackson, Mitchell Zeiter, Taha Ahmed and Victoria Canton. .

This scholarship is open to students who either have hemophilia or a similar bleeding disorder, or have a family member with a bleeding disorder. "This scholarship continues to positively motivate students in pursuing their education goals and career aspirations. May Eric's memory continue on through this scholarship and the achievements of these remarkable students," says Patrick M. Schmidt, chief executive officer of FFF Enterprises. Founded in 1994, the Eric Dostie Scholarship has assisted several bright, young, and talented students in reaching their goals of higher education.

Applications will be accepted until March 1, 2017. Visit the NuFACTOR Eric Dostie Memorial College Scholarship website at www.nufactor.com/EricDostieMemorial.aspx to learn more about the program and to request an application. Or call (800) 323-6832 ext. 1300 for additional questions.
